WASHINGTON (AP)—Navy Secretary Frank Knox said today he wished the Russian government would permit United States observers to go up to the Russo-German front lines and observe the fighting.

"So far this has been a very private war," he grimly told reporters at a press conference.

"I wish you fellows would try to get some observers up to the front."

He said the United States government had made repeated futile requests to send Americans into the fighting zone.

Freedom-of-Seas Policy Despite Jap Objections

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cordell Hull made plain today the United States stood on a freedom-of-the-seas policy in connection with shipments of war supplies to Russia through the Pacific.

He was asked at his press conference whether the United States would insist on freedom of the seas in carrying out the shipments despite Japanese objections.

His reply was that until this policy was revoked, it could be assumed that it was in effect.

As to whether Japan had made formal representations to the United States concerning shipments to Vladivostok, Hull said he would leave any statement on this at the moment to the Foreign Office in Tokyo.

He said the Japanese ambassador, Admiral Kichishaburo Nomura, had asked for an appointment with him today.

The Japanese news agency, Domesi, had reported from Tokyo earlier, however, that the Japanese government had made representations to the United States and Russia against shipment of American aviation gasoline to the Russian port of Vladivostok.

The Soviet government also had let it be known that it had informed Japan that it would regard as "an unfriendly act" any attempt by Japan to interfere with "normal trade relations between the Soviet Union and the United States via Far Eastern Soviet ports."

Nomura's appointment was made while Hull was conferring with the Soviet ambassador, Constantine Oumansky who refused to indicate in any way the subject of his conference with Hull.

In New York, some 52,000 dressmakers return to their jobs today after a one-day shut-down ordered by the United Popular Dress Manufacturers and the United Better Dress Manufacturers' Associations in a dispute with jobbers over the apportionment of an industry-wide 10 per cent wage increase. Final settlement will be made shortly.

SERGT. PILOT C. F. PAGE

During the past week Shawinigan bade farewell to two local boys home on leave, Sergt. Pilot C. F. (Chuck) Page, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Page, and Pte. Henry Webber, eldest son of H. G. Webber. Both were entertained by school chums and young friends while home. Page, who attended Shawinigan and Cobble Hill schools, recently received his wings. At the outbreak of war he joined the Canadian Scottish Regiment, transferring to the R.C.A.F. last October.

Wage Increase Averts Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Threat of a telephone tie-up throughout the United States was averted today by settlement of a dispute between union installation men and the Western Electric Company.

Chief terms of the settlement were: A blanket wage increase of 6 cents an hour for about 9,000 employees; national recognition of the union as bargaining agent; new seniority provisions; an arbitration agreement, and the right on the part of the union to reopen the wage discussions March 1, 1942.

Company officials estimated the total additional cost of wage increases at $1,500,000 a year.

DREAM OF PAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The dream of every small boy—a bicycle decked with all kinds of gleaming gadgets—is to become a mail order catalogue dream.

The office of production management has disclosed 12 leading bicycle manufacturers had agreed at a meeting with parts suppliers, retailers and defence officials to cut the weight of bicycles about 10 per cent, make fewer models and eliminate unneeded metal decorations, in order to save vital materials for defence production.

Juvenile and racing models probably will be cut out entirely, it was decided, and each manufacturer will produce only 10 models instead of the many now offered. Thus machine tools, skilled workmen and materials will be freed for home urgent work.

Noted U.S. Soldier Dies at 77

NEW YORK (AP)—Major-Gen. Robert Alexander, 77, wartime commander of the 77th (New York) division which included the famed "lost battalion," is dead at the United States veterans' hospital here.

Gen. Alexander was a veteran of the Sioux campaigns of 1890 and 1891; the Spanish American war, the Philippine insurrection and Pershing's punitive expedition to Mexico against Villa, and the World War.

After the war he was in command of the Third Field Artillery Brigade at Camp Lewis, near Tacoma, Wash., and became a major-general shortly before his retirement on his 64th birthday.

F.D.R. ATTACKS RUMOR SPREADERS

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt says there is no doubt a campaign has been organized to spread rumors, distortions, half-truths and falsehoods in an effort to sabotage the program of aid to opponents of Hitlerism.

He made the charge at a press conference after being asked to comment on reports of the misuse of lease-lend funds.

When he requested particulars, the President was told by a reporter he had read some Britons here had run up big bills at a Washington restaurant.

Certainly, the President asserted that never was charged to lease-lend. It was then he spoke of an organized campaign of sabotage, and added that the instance cited was probably a very good example.

He said he did not want it said he was denying allegations of misuses of lease-lend funds because the emphasis should be elsewhere—on what he called the campaign to spread vicious rumors, distortions and falsehoods.

Canada Consuming Public Faces Severe Controls

By NORMAN MACLEOD
OTTAWA—Under cover of an apparent lull on Parliament Hill's economic front, new and more severe controls are being prepared for Canada's consuming public and nonwar industries.

In at least three departments of government—finance, labor and munitions supply—the federal authority is girding itself for one gigantic effort. It is bent upon beating down a national price level that seems stubbornly bent on rising, or else.

There has been no formal announcement as yet of the major economic drive the Dominion government is organizing. In fact, its details constitute the most closely guarded secret of the moment in Department of Finance and Bank of Canada circles.

All that is admitted by authentic government sources is that something is coming, that it will mark a further long step along the road of state control, and that it will be designed to concentrate the material and manpower resources of the Dominion still more directly upon the war effort—thereby diverting them from catering to consumer wants which go to swell the inflationary pressure upon the national price level.

MAJOR ACTIVITY

One official who occupies a key position with respect to the plans that are being matured, sums up the situation in this way:

"Price control has ceased to be simply a matter of the government keeping down the cost of living in the interests of the working man. It has become, instead, a major economic activity of the government in the interests of an efficient prosecution of the war effort."

In plainer terms, what this official means is that the government is at the cross-roads where the threat of inflation must be met and overcome, unless the economic policies of the administration are prepared to make a wide detour from the path they have been traveling.

Speaking to newsmen during Prime Minister Mackenzie King's visit to the 1st Division, he said everything from boots and battle-dress to Bren guns and carriers had proved of the highest quality.

The Canadian-built carriers with their superior engine power soon will be used throughout the Canadian corps.

Gen. McNaughton said he had received the specifications of a new tank being built in Montreal.

He said he was awaiting the arrival of a sample which would be put through practical tests.

The boots of the Canadian soldiers, coming from factories back home, were described as the finest obtainable anywhere.

Gen. McNaughton said the Canada-made battle dress, developed after rigid durability tests, has greater wool content and better cut than the British version. It is the envy of men in other forces, he said.

The Canadian Bren gun has revealed itself to be an efficient, high-class weapon, he added.

GOVERNOR THRESHES

Governor-General, the EARL OF ATHLONE, visited a threshing gang on the farm of AUSTIN BROWNBRIDGE, near Brandon.

He watched threshing operations for a while and then took a hand himself tossing sheaves into the separator. He watched the golden grain flow out while straw swirled from a blower into a huge stack.

TO BE MOTHER

Buckingham Palace has announced the DUCHESS OF GLOUCESTER "will not undertake any further public engagements during the next few months."

This is the formal way in which it is indicated a member of the Royal Family is expecting a child.

The Duchess of Gloucester—the former Lady Alice Montagu-Douglas-Scott—married the Duke of Gloucester, the King's brother, November 6, 1935. They have no children.

WILL SAVE GAS

C. NELSON POGUE of Winnipeg, who invented a carburetor which he claimed would take a standard motor car 200 miles on a gallon of gasoline and which was later reported stolen, has announced he and his associates have offered two inventions for saving oil and gasoline to the Canadian army.

He said he did not want it said he was denying allegations of misuses of lease-lend funds because the emphasis should be elsewhere—on what he called the campaign to spread vicious rumors, distortions and falsehoods.

Just There for Bacon

LONDON (CP)—"We have no petrol coupons but the bacon and eggs are waiting for you," radiated the station to a Wellington bomber home from a raid short of fuel. The plane and crew just landed safely with empty gas tank.

He said he offered ordinance officials in Ottawa a carburetor that will increase mileage per gallon almost 100 per cent and an oil reclamer which he said would effect a material saving in oil consumption.

For so government economists warn—unless stubbornly advancing prices can be controlled forthwith, the federal authorities must resign themselves to an indefinite measure of inflation. This will not only make living costs higher for Canadians generally; it will also increase substantially the costs of the government's armament and general war program.

As the authorities here size up the situation, they are faced with the choice of inflation, involving higher war costs, higher taxes, more frequent war loans and higher living costs for the citizenship generally; or control of the price level, with consequent conservation of the cash the government still has on hand from the last war loan, and that living costs will not bring undue hardships to families and individuals in the lower income brackets.

While government officials will not divulge the strategy that is proposed to keep prices down, they admit that the transfer of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board from the jurisdiction of the Department of Labor to that of Finance was the first step in the preparations for the drive. In the Labor Department, they explain, the board was simply a cost of living agency, whereas in the Department of Finance it will become a major agency of fundamental federal economic policy.

It is stated generally that closer relations are planned between the Wartime Prices Board and the various wartime commodity controllers that have been appointed. But just what this will mean in specific detail, none of the Parliament Hill authorities are prepared to reveal as yet. They will not comment on persistent reports that rationing of consumers' goods is in prospect, but neither will they deny them. They simply state that additional controls are coming—and that it is consumers generally and nonwar industries upon which they will chiefly bear.

OUR OWN DEFENCE

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has turned over to the Red Cross a $5.94 cheque he got for a bit of work as an apprentice copyreader. At a press conference he suggested a heading for a story he had just given the reporters. It was:

"President quotes Lincoln and draws parallel."

The New York Mirror used the heading and sent the President a cheque for a day's pay as an apprentice copyreader, less social security tax.

SHOULD FIGHT

HERBERT AGAR, editor of the Louisville, Ky., Courier-Journal and an executive board member of the Fight for Freedom Committee, arriving in New York on the American Clipper said his trip to Britain convinced him more firmly than ever the United States should enter the war.

"We, the fight-for-freedom group, are supposed to be a 'war-mongering' committee," Agar said. "I went to England to reassess myself as to whether we are right in our 'war-mongering' and I decided that we are right."

SHOE HOLD-UP

A gunman held up ROBERT LAMB, clerk in a downtown Vancouver shoe store and escaped with a pair of shoes.

Lamb said he fitted the man with a pair of shoes and wrapped them up. The customer started to leave the store without paying for his purchase and threatened the clerk with a revolver when he followed him toward the door.

4 Drowning Deaths

EDMONTON (CP)—Royal Canadian Mounted Police announce the bodies of C. P. Christensen, 43, and his son, Norman, 14, were recovered from the waters of Cooing Lake, bringing to four the number who lost their lives Sunday when a home-made sailboat overturned during a pleasure jaunt.

The bodies of Marie Christensen, 14, daughter of C. P. Christensen, and Isobel Blair, 17, were found earlier, near the overturned boat, about a quarter of a mile from shore. All were residents of Edmonton.

Mr. Christensen had been a druggist at the Royal Alexandra Hospital here for nearly 20 years. His widow and two other children, Peter, four, and Vera, 10, survive.

Isobel Blair would have celebrated her 17th birthday this Thursday and was spending a week at the Christensen farm at Cooing Lake. Her parents, a brother and sister live in Edmonton in 1920.

Solely Their Business

BACK FROM HER VISIT TO BRITAIN,

Miss Dorothy Thompson, the brilliant American journalist and firm friend of democracy's cause, has come to the conclusion that "the people everywhere in the world are very much better than their governments." She has evidently taken this text for her homily to her compatriots; and, incidentally, few will quarrel with its basic argument—notwithstanding the fact that it is the people who choose their governments in all free lands. And until some other and better way has been found to translate democracy's instructions to those who aspire to govern, there is apparently little that can be done about it. Nor would she seriously argue to the contrary. But she so postulates her thesis, if we translate her interview in Bermuda yesterday correctly, because, after what she has seen and heard in the British Isles, she is convinced the great American public should be told the truth, and nothing but the plain and simple truth, about the war and to what extent the future of the world is involved in it.

In other words, Miss Thompson does not agree with Lord Beaverbrook in his view that "the didn't want an expeditionary force from the United States before this war is over." She found, however, that the people of Britain did want to know what America's position really is and whether she is ready and willing to see the business through—"and if I were English that's obviously what I'd like to know." As an American, of course, she is at liberty to express herself without fear of the natural political objection which follows interference in United States policy from an outsider. Lord Beaverbrook, on the other hand, is Britain's indefatigable Minister of Supply, virtually Prime Minister Churchill's deputy. While he quite properly purred an inquiry as to the possible intervention in the war by the neighboring Republic with the diplomatically-innocuous rejoinder that he would "like to see them in," the former Canadian was scrupulously careful to add that "it's nobody's business other than citizens of the United States; but if I am not to be hypocritical, I'd like to see them in now." Not even Senator Wheeler or ex-Colonel Lindbergh could find anything with which to quarrel in such an answer. We in Canada have taken the same stand. It is, in their wisdom, our great and friendly neighbors choose, at some later date, to pool their physical as well as their material resources with those of the democracies fighting for survival, well and good. It is still their affair; and when the time shall come to support Miss Thompson's argument by demanding action, the people of the United States then may have demonstrated that they are better than their government—if that term may be used in this regard.

Nor is it for us to speculate on the changing of opinion in the United States, as reflected by scientific polls and other forms of gauging the public view. We must leave this to the Dorothy Thompsons and those influential newspapers, commentators, cartoonists, statesmen and politicians whose sentiments and sympathies no doubt eventually will have a profound effect on President and Congress. The current issue of the New Republic of New York, for example, publishes a four-page editorial marshalling every conceivable argument in support of a United States declaration of war on the Axis at once. These sentences on its front page crystallize the feelings of the editors of this influential weekly:

Blowing Hot and Cold

YESTERDAY IN TOKYO THE JAPANESE cabinet's information bureau spokesman, Mr. Koh Ishii, said his country would welcome negotiations with the United States to ease the tension in the Far East—"if we can come to a reasonable conclusion." Also yesterday in Tokyo the Japan Times and Advertiser, Nippon's Foreign Office journal, explicitly mouthpiece, urged Britain and the United States to take advantage of an opportunity for the "renunciation of their past errors" on the basis of the eight-point declaration of Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt. This latter comment appears to have been based on a German warning to Japan against a split in the Axis gang.

Were it not for the explosive condition of the world, not forgetting the remarks which Mr. Churchill addressed specifically to the Japanese government in his broadcast on Sunday, the plaintive wail of Mr. Ishii and the Tokyo Foreign Office organ would be enough to make a cat laugh. And even though Emperor Hirohito and his counsellors may not know quite what to make of the Prime Minister's promise of British collaboration with the United States in the event of an American-Japanese conflict in the Pacific, one would think there was sufficient astuteness in the personnel of the Konoye cabinet to deduce from the Atlantic Declaration a hint for Tokyo to emulate Berlin and scrap the Axis pact while such scrapping appeared to be good. In the light of the plain fact that both Britain and the United States will act jointly if their respective interests in the Far East are further jeopardized by fresh military moves, Japanese policy obviously must be predicated, irrespective of what Hitler thinks or says, upon whether Japan desires to renounce her past errors—and thus come to a reasonable arrangement with the democracies—or whether she is prepared to precipitate physical conflict to test her capacity to make good her "co-prosperity" plan.

From Fort Erie Times-Review

All of us might be better if the habit of walking should come back to us; better in health and strength, and better in our souls because of more love and knowledge of the beauties of the countryside. True, many of us substitute golf for walking—but who ever heard of a golfer stopping on the fairways to admire a tree or a bird; or seeing anything of the good earth but his bad lies?

Mr. Billopp

"AD" TECHNIQUE FOR WIVES

Advertising is designed to attract and hold the attention. Our advertising writers today are making use of a new technique in which they describe in detail something which has little connection with the product advertised but which gets results. Why should not a wife employ the same technique with a "wool-gathering husband?" When she detects a vacant stare she might address him as follows:

"My dear, George Washington was the first President of the United States and is affectionately known as the 'Father of his Country.' He displayed signs of leadership early in life when he engaged in boyhood games with his brothers and neighbors.

"Washington was still a raw youth when he accepted a commission to survey the lands of Lord Fairfax, a task which he completed to the satisfaction of his employer. Not long after that he undertook a difficult journey into the Indian country to deliver an important message. He passed through many hardships and dangers, but not once did he forget the object of his journey.

"Again he displayed his devotion to duty and his unwavering purpose when he accompanied the British expedition in the French and Indian wars and kept his head when the column was ambushed and the stubborn British regulars were thrown into confusion.

"From then on Washington was a marked man and his rise was rapid. When his country needed him he was always ready to harken to its call. Washington's success may be attributed largely to the forming of good habits in youth and his development of them as time went on. Outstanding among these habits was that of giving strict attention to what was being said to him.

"In Washington's career we have an example which all of us might follow. Now why can't you be like George Washington and put your mind on what I have to say?"

CHRISTOPHER BILLOPP.

THE DECLINE OF WALKING

From Ottawa Journal

R. J. Deachman, odd combination of newspaperman, politician and philosopher, tells of the fun and good he got from walking up to work one morning, advises others to try it.

Today, more of us, perhaps, see more of the country, but we see it mostly through the window of a motor car—at 50 or 60 miles an hour. The pleasure of seeing while walking along the highway, or by taking by-paths through hill and glade, is no more.

In England, as in Ireland and Scotland, walking is a tradition, has not been checked by the motor car. People think nothing of walking 20 or 30 miles a day. The late Lord Tweedsmuir once told us that he had walked 75 miles in a single day; a feat which, almost incredible to Canadians, was by no means extraordinary for the Old Country. In his "Prophets, Priests and Kings," A. G. Gardner told how the late Lord Grey had once walked 25 miles in a driving rain across the moor to cover a bird's nest from the storm. And then, of course, there are those tales of the delights of walking by writers like Hilaire Belloc.

All of us might be better if the habit of walking should come back to us; better in health and strength, and better in our souls because of more love and knowledge of the beauties of the countryside. True, many of us substitute golf for walking—but who ever heard of a golfer stopping on the fairways to admire a tree or a bird; or seeing anything of the good earth but his bad lies?

JALOPPIES MAY COME INTO THEIR OWN

From Fort Erie Times-Review

There are indications that depreciation in the value of automobiles now in use may cease to be a worry to car owners. As has been the case in Great Britain, used cars in Canada seem due for a steady appreciation in value rather than the reverse; for, instead of a threatened reduction of 50 or 60 per cent in new automobile production, there is a grave possibility that no 1942 models at all will be made.

The basis for this gloomy and unprecedented prospect is the scarcity of certain metals—a scarcity which threatens to become progressively worse. Already aluminum has been ruled out for motor pistons, cylinder heads, etc., but recently two other metals seem likely to be denied auto manufacturers.

PRESS WAR

THE DIRECTOR of Public Information for Canada is asking for $3,000,000 to pay for one year's publicity about Canada's war effort in the United States alone. The editors of some Canadian newspapers are discussing that sum with sentiments bordering on consternation.

There was a time, not many years ago, when Canada was spending just about that amount per year on all defence expenditure.

War costs money. Publicity costs money. But in this war—

unlike the last—Germany recently put it all over us in this particular part of the war of words. It was not that we were not spending money. We were spending plenty. But we were spending it so ineptly that the results obtained were either puny as compared with the amounts spent; or were actually doing our cause harm.

Mr. Churchill recently house-cleaned the British Ministry of Information, which is now under control of his own particularly bright young man—Brendan Bracken. It is too soon yet to notice much change. But already the heavy hand of bureaucracy has been lifted. The old guard had the idea that its chief job was suppression. One of its most significant and typical exploits was to prevent the newspaper photographers from taking pictures of British generals shaking hands with the members of the Soviet Military Mission, on arrival in Britain.

REDS KNOW THEIR STUFF

If any layman cares to examine the front pages of North American newspapers during the last few months he will note a significant change. Before Germany attacked Russia most of the good war pictures, which had been news value, were coming originally from German sources. The heavy-handed bureaucrats, both at London and Ottawa, were mostly sitting on the lid. The Germans, on the other hand, were rushing the pictures out.

In less than a week after the Russians were in the war the Soviet press pictures, sent out by radio-photo process, began to push the German-released pictures.

AND OVER HERE, TOO

From Vancouver Province

The department at Ottawa, together with the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, has issued an appeal to all Canadian housewives to "serve by conserving."

They are asked to make sure that no vegetables or fruit go to waste this summer. And the waste explicitly indicated here is that of fruits and vegetables, "not gathered or distributed for immediate use or for storing or preserving."

Well, Mr. Pattullo and his Minister of Agriculture might well take a little trip to Lulu Island to see how "serving by conserving" is not being done under their auspices out there.

And perhaps they might get some of their opposite numbers at Ottawa to go along with them.

They would find hundreds of tons of potatoes plowed out of the ground and left to rot on top of it. They would see new-plowed land that ought to be rich soil to grow things in next year (if anybody wants to grow them then), because this year's crop of cabbages has been turned under to improve the soil.

And if the politicians and the officials ask the Lulu Island growers what is the matter they will hear that their own provincial Vegetable board does not let the small growers sell their produce at prices they can get, but insists they must sell at prices which no one will give them.

QUEBEC AND ENLISTMENTS

From Toronto Telegram

Quebec failed in voluntary enlistments. The last figures published by the government show 72,000 enlistments in Ontario, to Quebec's 34,000; and the latter included a great many English-speaking and hundreds of men who had been enlisted in Toronto and throughout Ontario for Quebec regiments because they could not make up their minds there. The actual voluntary enlistments from Quebec were much less than those figures.

Quebec was behind in the War Loan. She reached her objective, but she set it so low she could not help it.

In the drive for 32,000 men, Mr. Godbout said that Quebec reached its quota. What was that quota? She had done less than half of what Ontario had done in the first place. The quota was so low—how could they help reaching it?

HAROLD WINCH CHOSEN

Harold Winch and Arthur J. Turner, provincial president of the C.C.F., were chosen by 30 delegates at a nominating convention in Vancouver last night to contest the two seats in Vancouver East riding for the C.C.F. Party in the forthcoming provincial election.

Harold Winch was the last member for Vancouver East, while Turner was chosen to fill the vacancy left by sitting member Dr. Lyle Telford, who has resigned from the party.

SAVE 20% ON TIRE COSTS AS RUBBER-RATIONING LOOMS

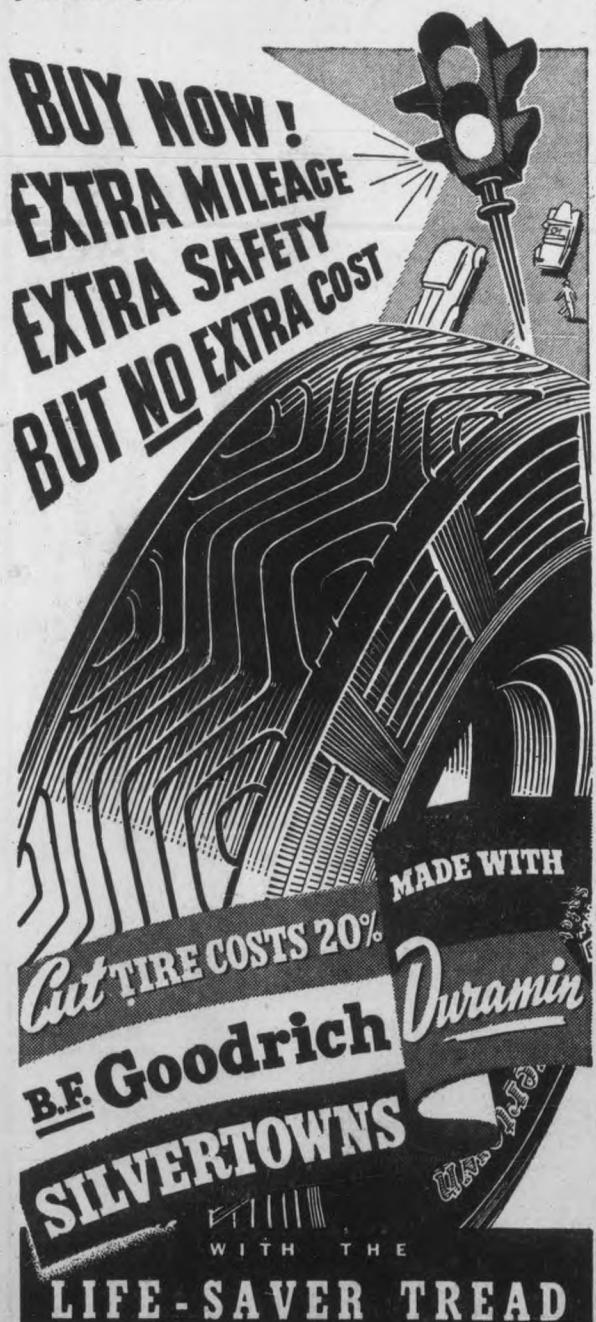

B. F. Goodrich offers Motorists 20% More Mileage for Tire Dollar!

KITCHENER, Ont., Aug. 27.—Rumoured rubber-rationing to build up reserves for war purposes would curtail civilian tire manufacturer which eats up approximately 70% of all rubber imported into Canada. Faced with increases in living costs—plus the necessity of making tires last far beyond their normal life—thousands of motorists are rushing to equip with the new B. F. Goodrich 1941 "Life-Saver" Silvertowns which add thousands of extra miles to tire life. These new Silvertowns with "Duramin" and "Safety-Weld" give five miles where the original Silvertowns gave four... actually save the motorists 20% on tire costs.

"Duramin" is a combination of chemicals proven to be the finest defence against rubber's greatest enemies—heat, sunlight and oxygen—keeps rubber young and alive—resistant to the grinding wear of the roughest roads. Not content with a 20% reduction in tire costs alone, B. F. Goodrich went even further... added one "super" on top of another... super mileage... super blow-out protection... super safety from skids. Result—this year's Life-Saver Silvertown is the toughest-wearing, safest-riding, smoothest-rolling tire in B. F. Goodrich history. It gives you more protection against blow-outs, more safety from skids, more riding comfort—without any premium in price.

"SAFETY-WELD" MAKES TIRES STEEL STRONG . . . LAST 20% LONGER

"Safety-Weld" accomplishes the same thing that single-unit welding of steel body with frame has done for the auto. It builds a steel-strong tire carcass—bonds top-quality Hi-Flex cords with "Duramin" toughened rubber compounds. It puts the famous "Golden-Ply" protection into every ply! Thus the new 1941 Life-Saver Silvertown is able to resist internal heat, withstand severe road shock, and protect against ply separations caused by high speed driving—proven to be "the safest thing on wheels."

SEA SCOUTS JOIN AIR FORCE

Seven members of the Ocean Falls Rover Sea Scouts have been sworn in here as a group of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

When asked why they were joining the R.C.A.F. after being given sea training, the young men said the reason was: "The air force recruiting officer got to Ocean Falls first."

Four of the recruits, Stu McGill, Jim Olett, Jim Murphy and Jim Russell, hope to be pilot-observers, while the other three, Bill Burns, Bud Todd and Jack Jacquett, have enlisted in wireless air gunners.

Jacquett is well known in swimming circles, having formerly held the British Columbia 100-yard and 60-yard records. Several of his companions were members of the Ocean Falls soccer team.

Canadian Training Wins Approval

The system and methods of training now in operation in Canada has been evolved in closest co-operation with the G.O.C. Canadian Corps in the United Kingdom and War Office.

Lieut.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton has recently expressed to senior officers in Canada his satisfaction at the progress of training in the Dominion.

"I have now had an opportunity to hear first-hand something of the great progress you have made in the provision of highly trained personnel needed to build up and maintain units of the 1st, 2nd and 3rd Divisions, Army Tank Brigade, armored divisions, corps and army troops," he stated.

"It is most satisfactory to know that attention is being concentrated on basic training which is fundamental."

Gen. McNaughton had praise also for the effective organization to handle recruits, officer-cadets, specialists and tradesmen and the priority being given the provision of required equipment.

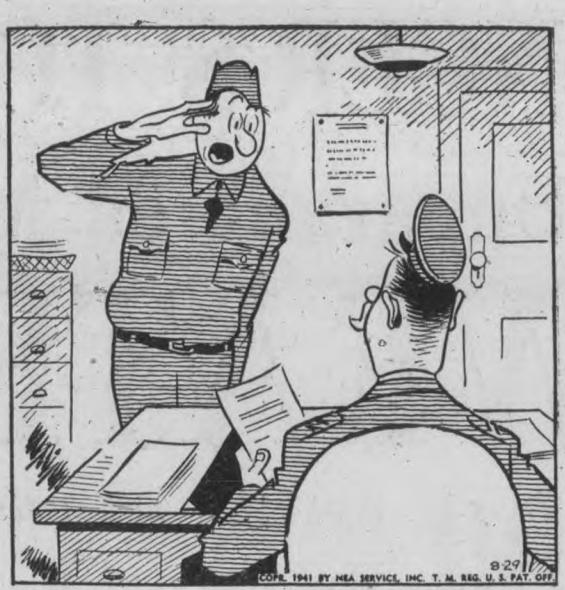

"The beneficial effects of this policy are already being observed here in the standard of the reinforcements now being received," Gen. McNaughton said.

The G.O.C. Canadian Corps spoke highly of the "intimate and sympathetic touch which exists between us" in referring to the interchange of senior officers between the United Kingdom and Canada.

New Air Force Call For Radio Mechanics

A number of Canadian universities soon will receive new classes of Air Force students for training as radio mechanics. A call for recruits was issued from R.C.A.F. headquarters today and recruiting officers throughout the Dominion are prepared to accept applications immediately.

Radio experience is not essential, but recruits must have an education equivalent to high school matriculation and be within the age limits of 18 to 40. Resources of many Canadian and American scientists have been turned to the development of a secret radio device which has been invented to nullify the threat of night bombing by the Luftwaffe. Now that it has become a reality, the Royal Canadian Air Force has been called upon to train men to operate the device. Men recruited now will go to augment other Canadians who have received their training in the Dominion and are overseas.

"Could I be excused for the duration of a personal emergency? My girl friend is going out with an exempted egg!"

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Among the many organizations in which His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Hamber have taken a deep interest during their regime at Government House is the Canadian National Institute of the Blind. As an expression of appreciation of their generous hospitality to blind residents on numerous occasions, Miss Ruth Jones, Mrs. Arthur K. Mitchell and Mrs. T. M. Knox, representing the Women's Auxiliary to the Institute, this morning called at Government House to make a farewell presentation to Mrs. Hamber. The gift took a novel form, being a replica of the auto parts which Mrs. Knox used for her highly original "motor accessories" entry in the decorated tables display at the Empress Hotel in the spring, and which was much admired by Mrs. Hamber. In presenting the gift, Mrs. Knox expressed the hope that Mrs. Hamber would use it for her at her ranch home, "Minnekhada," Fraser Valley.

The marriage of Edward Harvey Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hart, 509 Oliver Street, Oak Bay, and Violet Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Saunders, 417 Sherbrooke Street, New Westminster, took place on August 20, at 8:15 p.m. at the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, New Westminster. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank Plaskett, who also christened and confirmed the bride in the same church.

Pink and white gladioli decorated the altar and chancel, and white tulip bows and gladioli blossoms marked the guest pews. Mr. Joseph Plaskett played the wedding music and accompanied Miss Elsie Gray's solo, "Day of the Golden Promise," as the register was being signed.

Mr. Saunders gave his daughter in marriage, she wearing a gown of shell pink organza, with shirred bodice, bouffant skirt and sweetheart neckline, with finger-tip veil of shell pink net hung from a lace cap, pearl trimmed.

Baby bouquet was of pink roses, baby chrysanthemums and swansons.

Miss Audrey Hart, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, in aqua blue illusion net over taffeta, the full skirt adorned with rows of fine lace, worn with a matching halo trimmed with pink flowers, and carrying a bouquet of pink flowers, and white carnations and rosebuds. Mr. Clifford Saunders supported his brother, and Mr. Kenneth Waterman of Victoria, his cousin, and Mr. Hartley Dilworth were ushers.

The bride walked down the aisle on the arm of her uncle, Mr. R. L. Cobb, Comox, and stood between tall standards of white gladioli and asters during the ceremony. She wore a full-skirted white embroidered organdie frock touching the floor, with fitted bodice, dainty ruching binding the high neckline and down the front of the dress to her waist.

Her waist-length veil of sheer net was attached to her head with a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds and swansons. Her two attendants, Miss Mabel Nicol, the bride's cousin, and Miss Barbara Busteed, sister of the groom, wore identical frocks of sheer georgette in heavenly blue, with full skirts and long bell sleeves, and tiny lace tucking on the bodice. They wore blue point d'esprit picture hats and carried bouquets of peach gladioli. Little Julie Cobb, the bride's cousin, was flower girl, wearing a dainty pale pink marquise frock trimmed with pale blue velvet ribbon and a pink off-the-face bonnet, and carried a tiny basket of Dorothy Perkins roses.

During the reception Miss Elsie Gray sang, accompanied by Miss Dorothy McGeachie.

After their honeymoon trip on Vancouver Island, for which the bride left in an Alpine green crepe jacket dress, with fox-trimmed beige toecap and brown accessories, Mr. and Mrs. Hart will reside at 663 Monterey Avenue, Victoria.

HOWELL—WILSON

Two Victorians were principals at a quiet wedding in Vancouver on Saturday, August 23, at 2 o'clock, when Ruth Isabel, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford Wilson, 1432 Gladstone Avenue, Victoria, became the bride of Mr. John Paul Howell, 1612 Richmond Road, Victoria, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Howell, Nanaimo, Ontario.

The couple were united in marriage by Rev. Andrew Roddan in the First United Church, in the presence of the bride's immediate family. The bride, wearing a navy blue and pink ensemble with a corsage of Rapture rosebuds and swansons, was given in marriage by her father. Miss Jean Wilson, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, while the groom was supported by the bride's brother, Mr. Cleaver Wilson. A wedding dinner was held after the ceremony, the bride's mother presiding.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Howell left by Trans-Canada Airlines for a honeymoon in Toronto and other eastern cities, the bride wearing a wine and gold afternoon dress with wine accessories. She carried a coat of midnight blue wool with a wolf collar. The bride and groom will make their home in Victoria.

BALDWIN—TEBB

Gunner Bernard R. Baldwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Baldwin, 234 Vancouver Street, Victoria, and Miss Clara Tebb were married at First United Church, Brandon, Manitoba, on August 19, by the regimental padre of the unit to which Gunner Baldwin is attached.

Gunner Baldwin is a native son of Victoria, formerly attached to the R.C.A. here and Miss Tebb was on the staff of Brandon General Hospital. The bride was carried an old-fashioned nosegay. During the signing of the register, Leading Seaman George Manson sang "Because." Messrs. Arthur Haynes, R.C.A.F., brother of the bride, and Jack Hogarth were groomsmen.

Later a reception was held at the Parish Hall. Mrs. A. Risely, grandmother of the bride, was assisted in pouring by the groom's sister, Miss Dorothy Fee.

The bride's mother, attired in electric blue taffeta, and the groom's mother in dusky rose with navy accessories, assisted in receiving.

LEAVING FOR THE SOUTH this week is Mrs. Thomas Catterall and her four-year-old son, Ross. They will join Mr. Catterall in San Francisco and make their home in the California city.

Social and Personal

Mr. Jack Wolfenden, for 22 years associated with the Governor Hotel, San Francisco, and frequent visitor to Victoria, has arrived in town to renew old acquaintances.

Mrs. M. Aubrey Kent left yesterday for Pender Island, where she will spend a week as the guest of Col. and Mrs. Don Markey of Seattle. She accompanied them on their return to the island on their launch, after visiting friends in the city for several days.

Miss Grace Godfrey, 3330 Earl Grey Avenue, was hostess recently at a miscellaneous shower given for Miss Grace Hall by her fellow employees of the Safeway Stores, in anticipation of her forthcoming marriage. During the evening the guest of honor was presented with a luncheon set and breakfast set from the assembled guests. Pink and white flowers and streamers decorated the rooms, and Mrs. B. Bedford and Miss Joan Ash presided at the supper table.

Mrs. A. Anderson, 2983 Tillicum Road, was hostess at a linen shower last evening in compliment to Miss Joyce Rutledge, who is to be married next month to Mr. Michael Ott. The pretty gifts were concealed in a hat box tied with a huge bow, and corsage, bouquets of carnations and gladioli were also presented to the bride-to-be and her mother, Mrs. E. Rutledge, and to Mrs. Carl Ott. Blue streamers fell from the chandelier to the four corners of the supper table, which was decorated with pink asters. The guests were: Madames Edward Rutledge, Carl Ott, E. H. Lorance (Seattle), Thomas Anderson, George Prior, Frank Anderson, A. Edmonds, James Anderson and Misses Winnie Elliott, Betty Cottet, Jean Broughton, Margery Tindall, Patricia McConna, Pam McConna, Doreen Maynard, Joyce Finch and Gwen Dodsworth.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Cobb, Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Cobb receiving the guests in the garden under a rose arbor. Mrs. Wood was wearing a rose crepe redingote ensemble with black straw hat trimmed with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Cobb receiving in a mustard yellow crepe afternoon dress with matching accessories. The groom's mother wore an aquamarine crepe jacket frock with navy blue accessories and corsage of white carnations. During the reception Miss Filberg sang Gounod's "Ave Maria."

The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered cake, topped by a tiny silver and gold decoration used by the bride's grandparents, Mrs. E. H. Forrest of Hillbank, V.I., and the late Mr. Forrest, at their golden wedding two years ago. Mr. R. L. Cobb proposed the toast.

For her honeymoon to Victoria, where the couple will make their home, the bride changed to a pale blue wool trimmed with heavy silk embroidery at the neckline and down the centre of the bodice, dusty rose wool coat, large brown hat and brown accessories.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. Wood, Cobble Hill, grandparents of the bride; Mrs. E. H. Forrest, Mr. and Mrs. D. Nicol, Mr. and Mrs. S. Saunders and Samuel Saunders. Mrs. F. Rutledge, Mrs. J. Stewart, Mrs. B. Hall, all of Victoria, and Mr. E. Forrest of Dunedin.

FEAR—HAYNES

Victoria is the future home of Mr. Clifford Fee, R.C.N.R., and his bride, the former Josephine Ethel, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Haynes, Vancouver, who were married in St. Margaret's Church, Vancouver, August 9, by Rev. J. E. Allsop. Mr. Fee is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Fee, Vancouver.

The bride was gowned in white sheer with a lace veil and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and white heather. As matron of honor, the groom's sister, Mrs. Grace Moore, wore a pale pink net with matching halo. The bridesmaids, Miss Phyllis Crane, wore a blue net gown with halo to match. Both carried bouquets of pink carnations and gladioli. Doreen Perkins as flower girl was dressed in sky blue sheer and

Balanced Diet Rebuilds Energy, Body Tissue

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

If your husband is a doctor, lawyer, dentist or teacher, his meals should be as carefully planned as those of a first baseman, if you want to keep him in shape to answer calls.

Although his caloric requirements might be less than those of an athlete—from 2,000 to 2,400 calories a day on an average—the mental and nervous strains usually undergone daily by professional men demand the rebuilding of energy and body tissue as would violent exercise.

A balanced diet built around meat twice a day, including also milk, eggs, vegetables, fruits and cereals, is necessary for proper nutrition and good health. This menu for a day is a typical example:

Breakfast—Orange juice, French toast with maple syrup, Canadian bacon, coffee, milk.

Lunch—Broiled lamb chops with mushrooms, carrot and corn casserole, grapefruit salad, lime sherbet, sugar cookies, milk.

Dinner—Clam juice cocktail, ham steak with glazed bananas, asparagus au gratin, baked potatoes, whole-wheat muffins, butterscotch custard, coffee, milk.

Ham Steak with Glazed Bananas

(Four Servings)

Two pounds ham steak one inch thick, 1/4 up firmly packed brown sugar, 1 1/4 cups orange juice, 4 firm all-yellow bananas.

Place ham steaks in greased roasting pan. Spread top and sides with brown sugar. Pour orange juice over all. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 F.) for 1 1/2 hours. Peel bananas and cut in half lengthwise. Brush with orange liquor in which ham was baked. Arrange on top of ham steaks and place under broiler flame until tender and brown.

TOMORROW'S MENU

Breakfast—Orange and canned grapefruit juice, oatmeal griddle cakes, syrup, coffee, milk.

Dinner—Fruit cup, old-fashioned chicken pie with potatoes and vegetables, corn on cob, enriched flour biscuits, lettuce and tomato salad, chocolate corn-starch pudding, cream, coffee, milk.

Supper—Cream of chicken soup, toast, mixed vegetable salad, cheese, rolls, stewed fruit, cake, tea, milk.

Arriving here this morning by train, the Duke was greeted by civic officials, officers of the R.C.A.F. and also the R.A.F. from Mount Hope and the local R.C.A.F. recruiting centre.

The first figure of the group will indicate the military district in which the individual is serving, and provision is made for an allotment of 1,000 for each district.

Letters to the Editor

800,000 CIGARETTES A MONTH

May I acknowledge on behalf of my board the support so consistently given to the "Buckshee Fund" from the following communities in your province: Chilliwack, Grantham's Landing, Nanaimo, Prince Rupert, Wells, Ladner, Vancouver, Ocean Falls, Esquimalt, Kelowna, Mission City, Victoria and Read Island.

As chairman of the board I appreciate that it is upon such co-operation and support we have relied to steadily approach our objective of 1,000,000 cigarettes a month to the overseas forces.

Our last monthly shipment reached a total of 800,000 cigarettes, making our shipments to date in all just over 4,000,000. The Canadian Legion Auxiliary War Services officers in London have been distributing them to the units of the corps in England, and are giving us from time to time a distribution list showing the units who received the cigarettes.

From coast to coast we have been aided greatly by the goodwill shown our sponsors in each community, and to a large degree the press had led in creating this happy condition, and we would like you to know that we are grateful for the support you are affording us.

W. GIBSON,
Chairman, The Buckshee Fund.

NON-CANADIANS ATTACKING CANADIANS

I have read letters recently sent to local newspapers by some writers who seemingly like to find fault with Canada and Canadians. How would some of them like to go to their country and do the same? If they would just look for the good in others they would find it. You would think that in these trying days their minds would be more given to constructive thinking.

FOUNDATIONS OF PEACE

In her long and troubled history Britain has never lost a foreign war, and no matter how uncertain conditions may appear to be at the moment, we have every right to presume the present war will be won. Sooner or later the democratic nations will be obliged to make peace with Germany. Upon what foundations will the new peace be built? Let us look at the things done at the last "peace table."

For the most part the great statesmen at the last peace proved themselves to be small, unimaginative men, they were only great in so far as the press made them so. To the man on the sidelines they appeared to be single-tracked, glorified politicians, with one idea only—"What can I get to stake back to the folks at home?"—possibly this was what the people at home wanted, and the politicians gave it them, rather than directing them to a wider outlook in order to secure a lasting peace based on common sense.

Was it not a disgrace that all the hundreds of politicians, together with scores of industrial, economic, financial, labor, military, naval and other experts to advise them, could do no better than grab a mess of pottage to take back to the home front?

Bismarck started Germany on the road to militarism on a grand scale about 1870; he in turn was followed by the Kaiser, who took the idea still further and got the German schools and universities saturated with the idea of war and violence, so much so that it became part—and a large part at that—of the everyday life of the whole nation.

Hitler having such a background to work on found little difficulty in corrupting the educational system to a still greater extent. If the above is a reasonably accurate statement of what happened in Germany, one would have thought the politicians would have had sufficient intelligence to have tackled the problem at its source and insisted upon taking over the supervision of all German schools and seeing to it that the teaching of Christian ethics replaced militarism and brutality. It is quite possible that, given time, the schoolmaster would succeed where the politician has so miserably failed. The moment educational establishments allow the teaching of Christian ethics to go by default, the national character deteriorates. To quote Norman Angel: "Man, as we now know him—with body and brain physically that which he possesses today—has lived on this planet for some hundreds of thousands of years. During nearly the whole of that time he has been a creature of the jungle and the caves, cowed by fears of the forest and the night, of its demons and its witches, which he has tried to placate with human blood; and the civilizations which he has established have lasted relatively but a moment; and we're themselves marked by slavery, appalling cruelties, human sacrifice in various forms to various kinds of blood-loving gods; by gladiatorial shows, inquisitions, judicial tortures, suite, the jugernaut... Human civilization has been but 'brief gleams' in a long night of dark cruelty and terror. For every generation in which something like a humane civilization has prevailed, there have been hundreds, perhaps thousands, of generations of cruel savagery, or still more cruel 'civilization.' And though brief gleams show that man can, if he will, achieve a free and humane society, experience also shows that he seldom wills it; and, having won it, has never so far kept it for very long.

"Humane and kindly civilization is not 'natural' to man at all. It is a cultivated and artificial thing, depending upon certain ways of thought, ways which, once adopted, are easily lost unless watched and developed."

Maple Bay Road.

Machine Shops Join War Work

BY FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA (CP) — Scores of machine shops across Canada, hitherto maintained for the private use of industrial concerns, are being tied into Canada's industrial war program under a plan formulated by the wartime bureau of technical personnel in the Department of Labor.

The pulp and paper, mining, public utilities and petroleum industries have already organized themselves to place their shops at the disposal of the nation's war effort in one or more of the following ways:

Accepting sub-contracts for the manufacture of machine parts for war industries;

Providing facilities for training of skilled tradesmen for the armed services or for employment in war industry;

Maintenance and repair of army vehicles and other equipment in connection with trade training.

FURTHER MOVES.

The organization of other industries in the same way is in progress, all with the object of making the maximum possible use of the equipment and skilled manpower available in Canada.

The organization set up for the public utilities industry may be taken as typical of those set up or contemplated for others. It is called the "public utilities wartime workshop board."

Its membership includes representatives of telephone, electric light and street railway companies.

The board's training program contemplates the assignment of soldiers to shops of member companies to receive practical training as driver mechanics, electricians, fitters, motor mechanics and turners.

The manufacturing program undertaken by public utilities wartime workshop board contemplates acceptance of sub-contracts from companies engaged in war production for the manufacture of machine parts, particularly those which tend to form bottlenecks in munition-producing industries.

WAR CONTRACTS

OTTAWA (CP) — Contracts awarded from August 13 to 19, by the Munitions Department totaled 3,230, valued at $22,861,394, and included:

Foodstuffs—Burns & Co. Ltd., Victoria, $5,304. Clothing: John Leckie Co., Vancouver, $55,380. Gasoline, oil and fuel—United States contracts—$1,134,962.

Over All Lines

Heroes can get nervous. Native son Lieutenant "Jim" Golby, D.S.C., R.C.N.V.R., saved many lives by swimming 100 yards in the cold rough waters of the English Channel to attach a line to an enemy mine in the path of shipping. He spent 32 dangerous days at Dunkirk, many of them after the evacuation, demolishing material that would be of value to the enemy. His bravery was the greater because it was not only in the heat of battle but proved over a period of time.

When he faced a civic welcome, crowds and pipers, on his return to Victoria on furlough he was so jittery he would have ducked. "I can't face all that," he told the greeters and blushed like a schoolboy. Under pressure he went through with it.

The Canadian Navy has helped in convoying ships carrying more than 27,000,000 deadweight tons, according to the August issue of Canada's War Record. It has more than 200 ships of all types and by next March will have 400.

Announced in advertisements next to those of Almee Semple McPherson, as outstanding interpreter of the prophecies, Dr. Clem Davies, B.A., B.D., D.D., R.A.F., of the Prophetic Ministry, formerly of Victoria, is now at Hollywood speaking on such subjects as "Nazi Doom in Prophecy," "God's Plan After the War," with a prophetic chart of events shortly to transpire.

The "Good Neighbor" policy between Canada and the United States is emphasized in the announcement by the Canadian National Exhibition that "the public papers and addresses of Franklin D. Roosevelt" is the text that the Canadian and United States national typing teams will transcribe in the two-week, day-and-night third international typewriting marathon in Toronto. The President's works run into five volumes and 173,031 words. Each team, endlessly relaying at a single typewriter is expected to pound out 1,600,000 words, taking them about one and one-half hours.

mitted to the Ministry of Supply since war started and while only one in 400 is of any use Ministry Expert H. J. Gough says he hopes the flood continues.

New Zealand airmen in training in Canada, eligible to vote in a New Zealand by-election in Waitemata, cast their ballots at air training schools here.

Soldiers turn in about one in every 25 inventions and ideas in wartime while women are responsible for about one in every 100.

The Moscow radio reported that a captured Nazi stretcher-bearer said he had been ordered not to pick up wounded German soldiers who had lost legs or arms, but only wounded men who could be soldiers again.

The Rajah of Bashahr has forwarded £5,000 ($22,500) to the Minister of Aircraft Production for a Spitfire to be named after his province.

Unique among the auxiliary war organizations is a "Not Forgotten" association which arranges river parties on the Thames for servicemen disabled in the First Great War.

Deaths Accidental

Deaths of Mr. and Mrs. James Philip, Nanaimo, Monday afternoon when their car collided with an E. & N. freight train at a crossing near Chemainus, were accidental, was the verdict of a coroner's jury at an inquest in Chemainus last evening.

The inquest was conducted by Coroner A. E. Green.

The accident occurred when the Phillips' car struck a car driven by Floyd L. Otter, Montesano, Wash., and swerved into the path of the train, B.C. police said.

Mrs. Philip was killed instantly when the train dragged the car nearly 300 feet, Mr. Philip died about an hour after the crash.

Among those who gave evidence at the inquest was an eye witness, Thor Christensen. Others were Dr. N. Dicks, Chemainus, who attended Mr. Philip in Chemainus hospital; Constable E. F. McKay of the Provincial Police, and members of the train crew, Engineer A. McLaughlin, Fireman John Wilkinson, Brake-man John Ewens and Conductor Arthur Leeming, all of Victoria.

Motion to Join Union Defeated

A motion of Councillor John Oliver at last night's meeting of the Saanich Council that the municipality join the B.C. Union of Municipalities which will hold its annual convention at Harrison Hot Springs September 23 and 24, was defeated four to three.

The motion was seconded by Councillor K. W. Richmond and was supported also by Councillor J. V. Hobbs. Voting against were Reeve L. H. Passmore and Councillors L. C. Hagan, George Austin and E. C. Warren.

On invitation of the reeve, the municipal clerk, Wilfred Greene, spoke in support of the municipality joining the union. He explained that at this year's convention the resolutions committee would be open to all delegates.

"We should be represented in order to support or object to resolutions which would be handed to the Provincial Legislature for action," the clerk said.

"Some resolutions might affect Saanich directly and if we are not represented the government will take it for granted we support all the resolutions it receives from the union," he said.

Councillor Hagan said at past conventions, general delegates did not have a chance to vote on resolutions. He thought the new ruling that the resolutions committee be open to all delegates was a good move but he still did not favor Saanich joining.

Investigation will be made of a complaint from an owner of property on Queenswood Drive that a cottage had been constructed on property adjoining his lot which did not conform with the by-law.

The fire chief was granted an extra week vacation and was allowed $60 expenses to attend the annual convention of the Fire Chiefs' Association at Kamloops next month provided he went to the convention during his vacation.

Offer of $157.50 from F. H. Blashfield for a lot on Doncaster Drive was accepted.

A request from John S. Patterton that the road in front of the Lake Hill grocery store be graded was laid on the table.

It was the feeling of the council that $1,770 was too much to pay to drain about one-half acre of swamp land on Borden Road.

The municipal engineer, H. H. Allen, provided the information on the cost.

A complaint from a resident of Inlet Avenue that ditches on Inlet Avenue and Gorge Road were infested with noxious weeds, was referred to Councillor Richmond.

A suggestion of installing street lights on Richmond Road, Nell Street and Union Avenue at a cost of $300 was referred to next year's council.

Saanich Workers May Reject Bonus

Requests from employees that $5 cost-of-living bonuses a month be taken away from them would be an experience employers would never dream of encountering, but that is one with which Saanich Municipality probably will be faced.

The situation was explained at last night's meeting of the municipal council, which received a ruling from C. F. Elliott, commissioner of income taxes at Ottawa, that cost-of-living bonuses would be taxable.

Reeve L. H. Passmore explained that at the last meeting of the council cost-of-living bonuses of $5 a month were granted municipal employees earning $100 a month or less.

Among those affected were five married men whose ordinary salaries were $100 a month. The $5 bonuses would make their salaries $105 a month even though the council specified the bonuses would not be classified as increases in wages.

The bonus made the five men eligible for national defence taxation. This tax, along with a superannuation tax on the $105, would amount to $520. As a result the five men would be paying 20 cents a month rather than

Northwest Librarians Meeting in City

Tax Sales Coming

Tax sales will be held by Esquimalt and Saanich during the next two weeks.

The Saanich sale of property on which 1939 taxes remain unpaid will start Tuesday morning at 10.

The sale will be held at the municipal hall, Royal Oak. About 200

British and Russian Troops Moving Fast in Iran, Expect to End Fighting in Few Days

Soviet army tanks of the most modern type moved into Iran, once known as Persia. Teheran, Iranian capital, shelters 3,000 Nazi "tourists"—technical experts familiar with Iran's railways, oil pipelines.

'STOP ME AND BUY ONE' is the challenge inscribed upon this Wellington bomber of the First Canadian Bomber Squadron organized in Britain. A hooded skeleton dropping bombs is the plane's emblem. The squadron is led by a wing commander, D.F.C., from Saskatchewan, who learned to fly in his spare time before joining the R.A.F. six years ago.

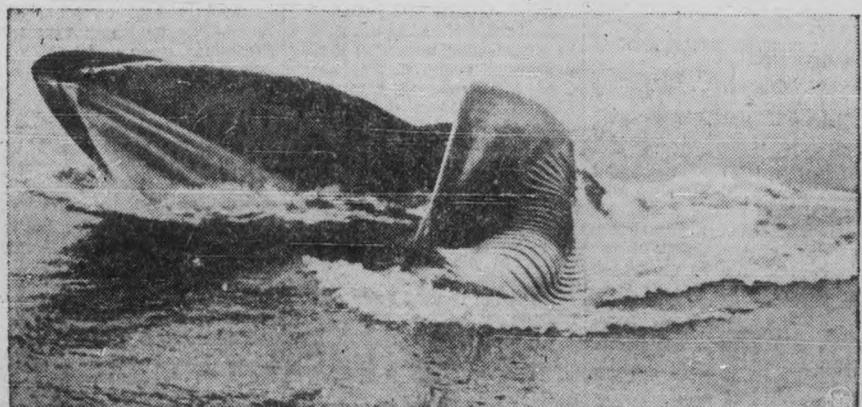

FORMER CZECH SHOE KING PROSPERS IN CANADA—Driven from Czechoslovakia when Hitler seized that country, a division of the Bata enterprises re-established at Frankford, Ont., near the Trent Canal. The original hamlet formed by refugees grew as the factory enlarged and took the name of Batawa. When war broke out machine tool facilities of the shoe factory were offered to the government and soon were producing Canada's first gun mountings

Evans, head of the British mission to Canada; Victor Goggins, general manager of the wartime housing program; Lieut. George Taylor, R.N.V.R., and C. E. Wright of the Ottawa munitions board, were on hand to congratulate Thomas Bata, 27-year-old president. Mr. Goggins is shown presenting a silver spade to Admiral Evans, while Mr. Bata looks on.

VICTORIA horse racing fans are breathing a lot easier these days. Reason, the meet at Hastings Park is being held as scheduled. When the recent trouble developed between the owners and the association over purses and a strike threatened to cancel the final meeting of the mainland season local turf devotees were worried the scheduled 14-day meeting at the Willows September 6 to 22 might meet a similar fate. With the owners forced to lay over for two weeks it was felt the Victoria meeting might fall through.

Indications point to another successful meeting at the Willows. It will be remembered the session last fall was one of the most successful in the history of the sport here. From reports those people who like to go out and lay the odd two bucks on their favorite bang-tails are as well fixed this season and just as anxious to take a chance. This is a good racing town and with lots of horses available we are looking forward to some big crowds when Starter Clay Puett starts letting the gee-gees out the gate.

There were no cameramen present and the spectators were few but that failed to keep Percy Fitzsimmons from feeling like a round peg in a square hole when he engaged in his first cricket match the other afternoon. Fitz turned out with the Five C's and according to his own story it was a great experience. "I was never so nervous in my life," he said. "I can't even tell you what position I played but I will say that I'm going out again if they want me and learn something about the game." Fitz didn't get an opportunity to bat so has yet to go through the experience of facing a good bowler. That should give him something to think about. Maybe he will wish he had stayed with ice hockey.

DiMaggio is getting his pay cheque falls far below the amount his perfect playing merits. He held out again last spring.

While fortunate to wind up with the New Yorks, who can afford to pay him the amount to which he is entitled, DiMaggio was unfortunate in crashing the Yankees a comparatively short time after the great George Herman Ruth.

Babe Ruth asked for and got a record $80,000 for long-range clouting.

Fans get stirred up when another fellow, even though he easily might be a better all-round player, comes along and demands something approaching what their idol made.

In a sense, DiMaggio's case proves there is a penalty for having too much natural ability... being too good in the beginning.

But DiMaggio will not hold out again. When it comes time to talk contract, he'll sit down with President Barrow and they'll get together in a jiffy.

DiMaggio is now a New York institution, and he has wisely decided to remain here—it and out of season—to grow up with the big town and the Yankees.

DiMaggio is vastly bigger than DiMaggio, the ball player.

He's the Yankees.

And a little thing like money will never separate Joe DiMaggio and the New York American Baseball Club.

Fishing at Cowichan Bay early this morning, Lee Halberg, associated with radio station CFCT, landed a 40-pound spring salmon. He was fishing with Gus Munro, manager of the Jokers box lacrosse team, and Bob Parton, a visitor from Vancouver.

The big salmon was hooked on a plug.

famous as a big league baseball pitcher early in the century, died yesterday after an illness of a month.

McClynn, who played with St. Louis, Boston, New York and Philadelphia National League teams, as well as numerous minor league clubs, was known for his iron-man achievements.

In 1904 he went the entire route as St. Louis Cardinals engaged in a 16-inning 1 to 1 tie with the old Chicago Nationals.

Torrid Race Continues

Dodgers Split Two

Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals split a doubleheader again yesterday, leaving Larry MacPhail's boys still a game and a half to the good in the torrid National League pennant race.

The Dodgers started off the afternoon as though they intended to get a little firmer hold on first place, winning an easy 8 to 3 victory, rapping out a dozen hits while Curt Davis allowed the Cards but seven.

However, in the nightcap the Cards were quick to take advantage of two successive seventh-inning errors by shortstop Pee Wee Reese and tallied three runs for a 3 to 1 victory.

It was a thrilling baseball show with seven-hit pitching performances by the two winning pitchers, Davis and Mort Cooper.

Dolph Camilli slashed out his 26th and 27th home runs of the year; while Augie Galan, serving his first day with the Dodgers, turned in a spectacular fielding play when he made a leaping catch of Crespi's long fly in the fourth inning of the second game.

The former Chicago left fielder hurt his leg in the play and retired in favor of Pete Reiser.

Chicago Cubs took a 5 to 4 victory from Philadelphia in the first game of their doubleheader and then made their victory in the second game more emphatic by slacking out 16 hits—one of them a home run by Dom DiMaggio with the bags loaded—for an 11 to 3 triumph.

Larry Jansen, San Francisco's rookie pitching ace, learned that phenomenal hurling may prove barren of results unless accompanied by a semblance of support afied.

Last night he limited Los Angeles to three singles and one base on balls in 10 innings but won 4 to 3 only because the opposing moundsman developed a wild streak in the 10th.

Lesnevich Wins, Signs for Rematch

NEW YORK (AP)—So close

was Gus Lesnevich's margin over Tami Mauriello in winning the world light-heavyweight championship in Madison Square Garden last night that promoter Mike Jacobs immediately announced a rematch between the two for the title November 14 in the Garden.

The bout will be at 15 rounds, and will mark the first official championship defense the rugged Russian from Jersey will make.

Lesnevich won undisputed possession to the bauble by only the barest margin. He floored the babyfaced kid from the Bronx in the second round, cut his face open in the fourth, and was way out in front when Tami came down the stretch to all but pull the decision out of the fire.

The officials decided that Lesnevich's early edge, when he used a slugging left hand, was enough to give him the verdict which clears up the confusion that has existed in the light-heavyweight throne since Billy Conn abdicated to try for heavyweight gold and gravity.

On the Associated Press score card, Mauriello had an edge of eight rounds to seven. Five of these he picked up in the last six heats.

Springing one of the outstanding surprises of the year, Patsy Giovannelli, Brooklyn plunger, outpointed Dobby Ruffin, a ranking lightweight contender from New York, in a clashing 10-round semi-windup.

Last night he limited Los Angeles to three singles and one base on balls in 10 innings but won 4 to 3 only because the opposing moundsman developed a wild streak in the 10th.

Wide Education Scheme Urged

Methods must be devised to engage the utmost energies of masses of people in thought and hobbies if democracy is to prosper, Prof. Linden Mander of the University of Washington told delegates to the annual conference of the Pacific Northwest Library Association today.

Prof. Mander spoke at a pre-conference panel discussion of the place of the library in adult education, attended by more than 80 delegates. From 80 to 100 additional delegates were expected to arrive during the afternoon and to attend a banquet tonight in the Empress Hotel.

A system of adult education employing the facilities of the universities, schools and libraries should be set up as soon as possible, Prof. Mander said, in order that mass thought should be behind reconstruction on more completely democratic lines after the war.

Miss Margaret Clay of the Victoria Public Library said the medium-sized library without special adult education facilities could best help in such work by surveying other facilities in the community, supplying bibliographies for study courses and, if possible, establishing study groups. To deal with individual cases, Miss Clay said, required great tact.

Only session of the conference tomorrow will be in the evening at 8, when Mrs. Mary Duncan Carter, Los Angeles, will speak on "New Frontiers for Librarians."

A committee on reorganization of the association will report Friday morning, and Prof. F. H. Soward of the University of British Columbia will speak at the evening session on "The Clash of Arms and Diplomacy in 1941." This lecture will be open to the public. The conference will end Friday.

Saanich Liberals Choose Tonight

Saanich Provincial Liberal Association will hold its nomination meeting in the Women's Institute Hall, Royal Oak, tonight at 8, with Minister of Labor George S. Pearson as the featured speaker.

Hon. Norman W. Whittaker, K.C., represented the riding in the last Legislature, and it is anticipated he will be again accorded the nomination.

Boundaries of the Saanich riding will change in the forthcoming election due to the redistribution bill. It loses an area around Cadboro Bay but takes in new territory in North Saanich.

vein to the rivalry existing between the two coast cities. He also linked up the first direct sailing from England to this coast in 1545 of a sailing barque significantly enough named Vancouver.

Addressing Engineer-Capt. Curry, the managing director of the plant said, "I value the support and friendly co-operation of our naval officers in putting through this building program."

Touching on new developments he said: "We are now turning to cargo ship production; planning to do our bit in contributing to a big construction program. Mr. Yarrow then asked the guests to wish 'good luck, success and safety to H.M.C.S. Vancouver."

NAVY PRAISE

Engineer-Capt. Curry, in reply, said that once again he was delighted to be able to congratulate the builders on a job well done.

They were happy, he said, to have the mayor of Vancouver present "to see what we could do in the way of shipbuilding." He referred to the happy idea of Mr. Yarrow to choose the ship's sponsor from the ranks of the shipbuilding workers.

From the manner in which the ship had been launched by Mrs. Ayton, the naval officer said he was sure the Vancouver would have a very happy commission and a most successful career.

Mr. Yarrow remarked that it was only right that one of those whose hands had helped to fashion the ship should be in the foreground at the launching.

SPONSOR'S REPLY

Mrs. Ayton, carrying a bouquet of red roses and lily of the valley, was being instructed as to the traditional method of "breaking the bottle, when the ship started to slide down the ways. Calmly, as the ship's forecastle receded, Mrs. Ayton stepped forward, swung the beribboned bottle of wine, which cracked as just ordered, foam cascading over the prowl.

As the stern cut the water re-newed cheering broke out from the assembled guests and the multitude on the rock-fringed shore. The blue ensign fluttered at the jackstaff, surmounting the Union Jack and Canadian red ensign which flanked a gigantic "V" for victory. A stern the white ensign of the navy floated free.

GALA PARTY

The bunting-covered launching stand carried the weight of navy, army, air force officers and their wives, clergy and civic dignitaries.

Mayor John W. Cornett of Vancouver was there with Mrs. Cornett.

Engineer-Capt. A. D. M. Curry, R.C.N., represented the commanding officer of the Pacific naval station, Commodore W. J. R. Beech, R.C.N., accompanied by

Col. Hugh Allan represented General R. O. Alexander, D.O.C. in-Chief, Military District No. 11, with Mrs. Allan.

Wing-Commander C. L. Trecarten attended for Air Commodore A. E. Godfrey of the Pacific Command, R.C.A.F., accompanied by Mrs. Trecarten.

Lieut. Hew Paterson, R.C.N., represented His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, accompanied by Mrs. Paterson.

The padres were there in their vestments, Rev. Arthur Bischlager, Rev. Father A. B. Wood and Rev. G. L. Gillard. Rev. Mr. Bischlager dedicated the ship "to a righteous cause," reading Psalm 107 and exhorting the guests to join in the Lord's Prayer.

Rev. Father Wood asked to be heard "our supplications to bless this ship," at the same time anointing the vessel with holy water.

Rev. Mr. Gillard, representing the United Church, did not actively participate in the blessings. The padres have agreed to alternate as the full ceremonial occupies too much time.

SHIP TOASTED

After the syringe had ceased and the ship safely taken in tow, the official launching party repaired to the company's offices to partake of refreshments and toast the ship.

Norman A. Yarrow, in proposing the toast to H.M.C.S. Vancouver, referred in good natured

Irish and Scots Helped Norsemen Settle Iceland

The little country called Iceland has been in the news more than once since the present World War started. Whether it will become a centre of fighting is a story not yet told, but in any case the people have had a share of excitement.

In the spring of last year about 60,000 British troops landed there. These were followed early in the present summer by American soldiers.

Old Norsemen landing in Iceland

President Roosevelt declared the step was needed to guard an approach to the western hemisphere. This statement might make us think of the early history of the New World. Iceland was one of the "stepping stones" used by Norsemen before the discovery of North America. First they settled in Iceland, then in Greenland, then in a place which is believed to have been part of the mainland of our continent.

School histories tell how Leif Ericson and his men made a voyage to "Vinland" about the year 1000. This was followed in later years by voyages of Norse colonists who tried to find the same region Ericson had discovered. They reached shore, but their colony did not last long.

In speaking of Iceland as a "little" country, I do not mean it is one of the smallest in the world. It is larger than Ireland, so far as area goes.

In population, Iceland does not nearly equal Ireland. Not counting the soldiers there now, the population is only 121,000. Ireland has 35 times as many people as that.

Irishmen had something to do with settling Iceland. One old record states that they reached this island of the north more than 1,100 years ago. I cannot say that the record is true, but it is clear that Irish folk were among the very early settlers, even if they did not get there first.

It seems there were also Scottish settlers in Iceland in early days, but Norsemen went there in greatest number. They arrived in 870, and formed about two-thirds of the early population.

For close to 300 years, Iceland was a republic. Then it fell under the rule of Norway, and soon afterward was taken over by Denmark. With the passing of the years, the Icelanders won almost complete freedom from Denmark. The last thread which tied them to Denmark was cut during the present war.

Captive Generals Made O.C. Chickens

LONDON (CP)—Four British generals, an air marshal and a flight-lieutenant captured by the Italians are spending their time raising chickens and growing vegetables at a villa near Rome, according to a letter reaching London.

Gen. Carton de Wiart, 60-year-old one-armed and one-eyed leader of the British Expeditionary Force in Norway, was chosen "commander in chief of the vegetable garden" and hopes to have fresh onions, carrots and lettuce soon.

In a letter to his daughter, Mrs. R. Walker, the general said he spent two hours in the water after his plane was forced down in the Mediterranean last April and that the Italians were treating him "excellently."

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a young woman with a good husband and two beautiful children. The only trouble between my husband and myself is that he wants to choose all my clothes and his taste differs from mine. When I buy something fashionable he goes up into the air. Recently I went to visit my mother and while I was there I had my hair bobbed and got a permanent, and mother presented me with a beautiful pair of diamond earrings. When I came home my husband just stormed when he noticed the transformation, and he tries to stop me from wearing my lovely earrings, but I insist that I am quite within my rights to choose some things for myself. And, anyway, my hair is off and my ears are pierced and he can't change that now. So if you can tell me how to handle him so he will admire them, too, and not cause a fuss every time I fix myself.

Answer—Time will accustom him to you new hair-do and the earrings and he will cease to comment upon them. It will help along the situation, sort of apply oil to the troubled waters, if you will get two or three of your women friends—but on no account men friends—to say to him how much improved you are by having your new bob, and that your diamond earrings are simply gorgeous and fill them with envy. Probably by the time six or seven ladies of your acquaintance have raved enough over your transformation he will think that you cut your hair off at his suggestion and that he gave you the earrings.

Husbands, thank goodness, are not always consistent about what they want their wives to do or not do. But anyway, a woman who buys her clothes certainly is playing in hard luck. All that a husband should do is to pay for them.

DOROTHY DIX.

LINDBERGH REFUSED
USE OF AUDITORIUM

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Charles A. Lindbergh will speak in Oklahoma Friday "even if he has to use a cow pasture," a spokesman for the America First Committee asserted after the city council canceled a permit for use of the municipal auditorium.

"If we can't get a place here we'll go somewhere else. But he definitely will speak, and it will be in Oklahoma," added Herbert K. Hyde, Oklahoma City chairman of the America First Committee.

The council acted unanimously on protests submitted by two local American Legion posts, the women's ambulance and transport corps of Oklahoma, Harmony Chapter No. 3 of the American War Mothers and the Knights of Pythias.

Councilman A. P. Van Meter, moving the cancellation, said: "We're not denying the right of free speech by refusing to rent a public building.

"Let him go elsewhere to speak, and when he gets tired talking, he can go home."

MITCHELL — Brig. Gen. Charles H. Mitchell, 9, recently retired as dean of the faculty of Applied Science and Engineering of the University of Toronto, is dead.

The packages come from relatives and friends, from Red Cross chapters or other humanitarian agencies in the homelands.

Transport difficulties across Spain held up British Red Cross packages for months at a time early in the war, and even now, it usually takes about four months before packages from the United States reach the camps.

PACKAGE A WEEK

Every British prisoner now, however, is able to receive at least one package a week. During the first three and a half months of this year 329,092 parcels arrived in Geneva for distribution to British prisoners in Germany, Italy and occupied France.

In Geneva, damaged parcels, averaging about 2 per cent of the total, are put aside, their contents carefully sorted, and everything usable forwarded in bulk to the camps.

Almost as important as physical needs of prisoners are their intellectual and recreational needs. Already more than 25,000 books have been sent to prisoners' camps, of which 18,000 were sent directly by the International Red Cross.

Sports equipment and musical instruments are other welcome gifts in prison camps, where "barbed-wire-phobia" is a constant danger.

Authors Honored At Final Banquet

Dr. John Murray Gibbon receives painting by Mrs. Mildred V. Thornton.

Dr. Philippe Panneton accepts fiction award from Mrs. Madge Macbeth, president.

"Yes, he burns books. Some books also have been burned in Canada," replied Miss Clay.

C. K. Morison, provincial librarian, said British Columbia spent $10,000,000 a year on public education and only $230,000 a year on public libraries, adding that in choosing British Columbia as an illustration he implied no criticism of the province.

"There will be some changes made," he said. "We have in our British Columbia administration men with vision, ideals and ideals with regard to adult education. There is definitely a move afoot to expand adult education activities on a practical basis."

Mr. Morison urged that public support be given for library expansion. "You have the opportunity to take up the question with your elected representatives," he declared.

Welcoming the authors to a luncheon tendered by the provincial government, Norman Whittaker, K.C., said that if Canada failed to learn the lessons of the present struggle, it would take the road of complacency and indifference.

"Another road leads to peace," he said. "We must achieve the sovereignty of humanity first. The answer to this problem lies with the common people."

Mr. Whittaker represented Hon. Dr. George Weir, Minister of Education, at the luncheon.
